Introduction

This is a simple program similar to the original Netflix service. OOP has been used for its design.

Design and Implementation

You can check the UML that is uploaded with this report.

Testing and Evaluation

You can enter the program through admin and user. User and admin accesses are different and each one works according to the path defined for them.

Conclusion

A simple program where the user has access to specific movies and TV programs and can use them through his user account.